It's secreted by the ventricles and can be elevated chronically in states of ventricular stretch, such as chronic CHF or a cardiomyopathy. The Japanese manufacturer, Showa Denko, also injured thousands dumping its mercury catalysts into the public waters.